this lower may not be used to strike down all the rights of the thates? I answer that our scurify is in the guards which the m n who framed the Constitution have thrown around it; in the immense proposal mane of votes required to propose and to rathy amendments, and at last in the justice and honesty of the people, if these guards and restrictions are insufficient, can man ever trust himself in any human government at al.? If this protection be inadequate can be ever be secured in committing himself to any organized society, and must be not seek the security of his rights in an abandonment of all a ociation with his race and Iving a hermit and about?

The further consideration of the question being postponed until 11 o'clock, at that hour Mr. Prait took the floor and spoke as follows:

Mr. Stearis: I propose to address the Serate in toply to some views presented by the distinguished Serator from Haidin on Saturday last, and in review of some of the propositions set forth in the paper which is the subject of consideration. The Senator has reported from the Committee on Federal Relations—whether with the concurrence of the entire committee or whether by acting singly, as he has done in some cases—when I rad the honor to be a member of that committee, I am not prepared to say—the Isper which his before me. Departing from the ordinary routine of Legislative action, which has heretofore taken the form of acts or reconstions, on account of the seperior importance attached to the question to which the Senator proposed to address himself, fhis atterance of fils, or the committee which is proposed to be the interance or action of the General Assembly, is denominated a protect. THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1866. We publish elsewhere this morning ar able speech from Hon. John A. Prail, in reply to Senator Heim, delivered in the Senate of How THE CASE STANDS .- The Courier seen balf disposed to apologize for the recreant and unfaithful course of the majority in the Ken. tucky Legislature. "That body," it says, "may not have done all that good policy would have required to be done, but to hold it responsible for the continued suspension of the habeas co pus, the presence of negro soldiers, and the ex istence of the Freedmen's Bureau is as unjust as it is absurd." The majority "may not have done all that good policy required to be done." We should think not. Have they done any thing, as to the measures in question, that 'good policy" and the interests of the State and o the country "required to be done?"

Let us see how the case stands. They elec for their official mouth-piece and representative a paper which declares that the "slavery question is more unsettled than it ever was before." That amounts pretty nearly to an official in dorsement of the sentiment; and that centiment was uttered after the promulgation by the Gov-erament of the adoption of the Constitutional Amendment forever prohibiting slavery in the Next, ex-Gov. John L. Helm, chairman o the Committee on Federal Relations, reports in effect that the States composing the Union have no right to amend the Constitution prohibiting very; that is, have no legal right to do jus what they have already done, which act has been officially recognized by the Government of the United States. The majority elect as their official organ a paper which declares Elavery to be "more unsettled" now than ever before; and, following hard upon the heels of this act, their leader-we suppose Mr. Helm may be so considered—reports that the adoption of the Constitutional Amendment is illegal, and, if fliegal, void. This is in accord ance with the extreme State right doctrines. based upon the Interpretation which the disc ples of that school always placed upon the famous Virginia and Kentucky Resolut '26 and '99. The State is made the judge of what constitutes constitutionality, and what is not in her opinion constitutional she is not bound to obev.

The act of the majority and then the theory of their leader speedily following the act accord perfectly; and the logical inference from them is inevitable that the majority in the Legislature do not consider slavery abolished and do not intend to recognize any such fact. What else can be inferred from the act and the theory? If they do not mean this, what do they mean? This much at least is positive, it is what has been done. The negative, or wha ass not been done, is equally significant. The session is near its close, and the majority have done nothing to indicate their acquiescence is the fact of the extinguishment of slavery in the State. They have not declared the statutes lu reference to slavery rescinded. It may be said this is not necessary. Why not necessary? Are statutes supposed to be void to be left upon record as if they were valid, and are the courts our ordinary justices of the peace, to be left to arrive at the fact of non-validity through circuit of reasoning growing out of the Consti-tution of the United States? If they have no longer any force or effect, what is the objection to saving so plainly? We should like to know that. But free negroes or freed negroes are not competent to enter court as against white men. They cannot testify in any case against them or down by a white man and no white person is a witness of the fact, the crime cannot be reached and punished by the laws as they now exist. If a negro is murdered and all the witnesses are black, the murderer cannot be convicted. Do you call that freedom when the freedman is beyond the pale of the law? Is that the klud of freedom that is meant when the Constitution says that 'Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude except for crime, whereof the party shall have been convicted, shall exist in the United States?"

The commander of this Department says that the Freedmen's Bureau will be removed as soon as the freedmen are admitted as suiters and witnesses. He has the confidence of the President, and is here by his authority. If the majoriwant the Bureau removed, why don't they this easy and expeditious way to bring about the desired result? They ask the Governor to ask the President to have the Bureau removed. The President will be rather likely to ask them why they don't do something to enable him to comply with the request; why they don't give him a reason which he can state to Congress and to those who are assalling his measures to justify him before the country for what they wish him to do? Do they suppose the President doesn't know what is going on here, and what the Legislature has done and what it has failed to do-the acts and the theories and the emissions of the majority? Do they suppose these things done in a corner so small as o be unknown in Washington? The Commander of this Department-who has the confidence of the President and who would not be here a rhoment without his consent-makes a series of grave statements touching the questions we are discussing, and which have a direct bearing upon what the majority in the Legislature profess to wish to get rid of, and whose truth he says he has evidence to establishstatements that demand instant and thorough investigation, and yet the majority coolly Lore the whole subject and very naively reques the Governor to ask the President to do what they permetently refuse to assist him in doing or to give him a reason for self-defense agains his assailants if he should do!

With every desire to do justice to the majori ty, we must say that their course seems to us, and we greatly mistake if it does not seem so to impartial men generally-extraordinary; and up on the theory that the said majority wish to promote peace, unity, and harmony in the The President it is known is struggling to re store civil government to the South, and all the States to their normal condition in the Union; he is watched with lynx-eyed and unfriendly eyes by a powerful faction if not a majority in Congress and the North, he is insolently assailed by those who are bent upon humiliating the South, and practically subverting the prin ciples upon which our Government was founded, and the cheering voice and generous e m pathice, and the active ec-operation as far as possible, of the conservative Legislature of this noble old Commenwealth would be most grateful to him in this trying emergency. It would brace up his arms and nerve his heart, and would be felt in the halis of Congress, and throughout the country. But the Legislature is dumb or is only heard in querulous and petty fault-finding, or in measures or omissions cal-culated, if not designed to embarrass the President and aid his or ponents! The Legislature of the Old Dominion, the mother of States and of statesmen, has just unanimously resolved:

We mean to co-operate in the wise, firm, and just policy adopted by the President with the President's defeat, if he be defeated, upon noth classes of radicals; the Courier will lay it mpon only one class, the radicals in Congress. While blaming that class, the Courier has no word of condemnation for the reaction radicals of the Democrat's class here. "What an idea!" We believe the Courier professes to "support the President." Here is a "homely figure" he made use of the other day when referring to the "extreme men South and the extreme men North," which may do it no harm to contem. "I might make use of a homely figure. which is sometimes as good as any other in the and say that there has been a hammer at one end of the line and an anvil at the other.' PRESIDENT JOHNSON AND THE OLD DOMINIOS President Johnson spoke with peculiar eig uence and power to the delegation of Virginane, who visited him on the 10th instant. The ecasion was highly calculated to elicit from him a declaration of those principles which constitute the very basis of the Government He addressed the representatives of the eldest and most renowned State of the Union-the tate that was foremest in the cause of Independence, foremost in laying the foundations of the Republic, and foremost in contributing her ilstrions sons to guide the councils of the nation. It is true, most sadly true, that the venerable Commonwealth, perhaps from the very weakness of old age, had forsaken her ancient loyalty and duty, and had raised her arm against the Republic; but, torn and tattered by the unnatural strife, and repenting her misguided deeds, she had returned in peace to renew her vow at the nation's common elter Speaking in behalf of her whole people, and addressing the President of the Union, the Vir-

We recognize the Government as our Gov We recognize the Government as our Government. Its Constitution as our Constitution. The duties which it enjoins are our duties; the rights which it guarantees are our duties. Another great result, slike accepted by our people, is the final overthrow of the institution of elavery. This has been completed by a constitutional amendment, the binding force of which is universally admitted; for, although we were not represented in the Congress by which it was proposed, that feilure to be so represented was our own choice. as our own choice.

The foregoing words, so strong, so unequivo cal, and patriotic, are worthy of the Old Domin ion in her palmiest days. Expressing the sentiment of obedience to the country's laws, and claiming them as a part of Virginia's heritage, they give to the settled results of the war a manly and cureserved recognition. We doubt not, nor did the President doubt, that they were uttered in sincerity-a sincerity, indeed, which is shared by nine-tenihs of the people of Virginia. Now that the storm of rebellion has died away, the Old State is as true to the republic as the was when her councils were directed by Washington and Jef ferzon and Madison, and when, also, she stood forth as the main pillar in temple of the Union. Virginia has seen and felt erough of strife, and every consideration prompts her now to desire an enduring peace. The President's reply to the Mother of States was uttered from a national point of view, and his words were heavy with golden truths. He had faith in Virginia; he trusted her people, believing that they will freely and fully discharge their obligations to the Union. Pointing to the difficulties and perils by which the Government had been, and still was encumbered, he said that, · at the beginning of the recent gigantic struggle between different sections North and South, ere were extreme men North and extreme men South. This great Government was kept upon the anvii and hammered during the recellien, and it has been hammered since the rebellion, and there seems to be a disposition to continue the hammering until the Government is destroyed. I have opposed that system always; I oppose it now. The Government, in the assertion of its powers and n maintenance of the principles of the Constiction, has taken held of one extreme, and with the strong arm of physical power, has put down the rebellion. Now, as we swing around the circle of the Union, with a fixed and unalterable determination to stand by it, we find the counterpart or duplicate of the same spirit that played to this feeling and these persons in the South. This other extreme which stands in the way must be got out of it. The Goverrment must stand, unshaken and unmoved upon its basis. The Government must be pre-

Thus, to the gratification of patriots through. cut the land, the President distinctly announced himself the friend of Conservative action in upholding and administering the government the Government of the nation. The partisan extremists can find no friendshid nor fovor in him. He opposed their system of hammer ing the Government during the war, and he has constantly opposed it since. When speak ing to Virginia, he spoke to the American people, and he has declared, with a will as resolu as that of Jackson, that the Government shall be preserved in the spirit of the principles upon which it was formed. Let the radicals both in and out of Congress, take timely warning from this stern declaration of war against them: the author of it deeply feels its significance, and is prepared to test every inch of ground against their wild and destructive schemes. And he will be finally sustained in the struggle, not alone by the old Dominion, but by every State of

THE PRIM REBELLION.

If we are to believe the official dispatches intely published in the Gazette, which is at the present juncture the only paper allowed to inruish us with news concerning the revolt, it must be inferred that General Prim and his men will cross the frontier and reach Portugal quite safe, though perhaps not perfectly sound. Other icople, however, who for nothing on carth would put the slightest faith in anything the Government says about that General's movements, are, on the centrary, expecting him and his cavalry back in Madrid almost every hour, and aliendy expatiste on the pleasure which his return will alford to everybody, excepting O'Donnell and his whole set. When the sort of information that works upon the anxiety and the credulity of the public is of so contradictory a character, there can exist no doubt that for any one not thoroughly initiated into the Government's nor the conspirators' secrets, or entirely familiar with the augur's art, it is next to impossible to kome what to think of the chances of success that may attend the present revolutionary attempt.

For my part, I rather faucy that Gen. Prim apon exclusively party considerations. We chances of success that may attend the present revolutionary attempt.

For my part, I rather faucy that Gev. or restoring the representative form of govern-nent, which ever since Philip the Second's time had been abolished in Spain, there hardly were and been abolished in Spain, there hardly wer-nore than two political parties in the country-be Absolutist or Anti-constitutional, and the iberal or Constitutional. When, after the cath of Ferdinand VII, this form of govern ent was finally re-established, the Constitument was finally re-established, the Constitu-tional party broke by degrees into two differ-ent sections, which assumed the respective name sor "Moderado" and "Progressish" par-ties; Conservatives and Whige, as the English would perhaps coil them. About the year 1855, two other parties, the "Union Liberal" and the Republican, made their appearance. Both of them had, before that time, given, unequivocal sign of existence; but it was not; till theu that they took a decided position as real militant periles.

The Absolutisis profess the doctrine of "di the right' of kings, and, consequently con-lemn all certs of representative governmen ill kind of liberty, all manner of progress This party, always directed by the clergy, is no below enough; or, rather too numeron the rural districts. The "Moderating to sustain constitutional affecting to sustain constitutional princip have never been strong supporters of liberal forms worthy of the rame. They are the smeet of any of the parties in Spain, and do by means enjoy much popularity through the country. The "Union Liberal" came life under General O'Donnell's initiation, professes liberal doctrines, and has Introduced a good return. This party, the most a mercus one in Spain, is composed of nearly the a received rate. e preminent practical man, both of the o Mcderado" and "Progresista" parties, as one has yet come up to it with regard to di pline and ability. The "Progresistas" us. to be the most numerous party here, before existence of the 'Union Liberal," and the mai appearance of the Republican party g occasion to the great mejority of its members leaving it and going to one or the other of the two latter parties. On the whole, the derines of this party have always been more ill trines of this party have always been more liberal than those of any other Spanish party professing constitutional monarchial principles. Had it not been for the "Progresistas," who were Queen Isabella's best enprorters during the Isat civil war, she would not perhaps have occupied the throne. But this party, which has collberal a platform, and which is full of other excellent conditions, never could possess one of the most necessary qualities, the discipline which would make it it for governing. Hence its having hardly ever obtained nor lost power, otherwise than through some disturbance or other. The Republican or Democratic party professes the essential principles of moderate republicanism; but though forming already a considerable section, it has no chance whatsoever of getting into ever for more reason. Although meonsclous of having given any area of offense to any person in that category, are point the ictier, as an act of courtesy and atticcto a class of men who have a very unleasant cline to perform among us, and who may complain with some reason, of the difficulty that arises in finding opportunities to active defenselves. antendy a considerable section, it has no cha whateover of getting into a ke for many y, to come, or, at least, of keeping it during length of time. As a natural consequence thereof, it is hardly pecsible to say who their respective leaders really sre. Commonly it is thought, however, that the Absolutiats have no particular leader at present, and that the "Moderado," the "Union Liberal," and the 'Progesista" parties are respectively under the leadership of General Narvaez, Duke of Valencia; of General O'Donnell, Duke of Tetuan; and of General Espartoro, Duke of Victory. The Republican party usually looks on a Sugor Orense as its founder, and the small potition of it that follow the true republican doctine consider him their principal leader; while the greater number, who midet with a uniform on, and it is not improbable that the majority of this class as ardently desire to be relieved from cuty.

After all, it is not the soldier against whem the undying exercation of the South should be burled. Those of them whose opinions are entitled to much respect have, in the unain, conducted and expressed themselves with liberality. It is that miserable set of vampyres who are sucking the blood of the nation at Westington, who are patching and botching the work of the pariots of the last century, who are legislating away the ordinances of God, who are adding a new Illustration of the political trath that the vilest of despotism is that of a mob—these are the creatures who are making the restoration of a true Union diffithe true republican docume consider him principal leader; while the greater number, who profess socialist ideas, have almost every year

THERAT OF GENERAL PRIM IN 1864

The Increased discontent the 'Progresista' any experienced for not being callest to the councils of the Crown was very great, when, in altogether from taking an active share luthe general elections that soon after were to occur. In May, 1864, the party had a large meeting at Mcdrid, on the occasion of a memorable break-instant, and General Prim then declared, in a public speech, and in a menacing tone, that his friends would be in power within two years and a day from that date. The Queen, who in spite of whatever may have been said by certain people, behaves in a very constitutional manner, and acts with a lare discretion, has sluce that time been doing, in an indirect way, everything one sistent with her proper dignity in order to increase that are discretion them of a political tody. True, 'its but me man—a single life—that stands between us and the fee—the loe of their country and their kind; but that man, let us be well assured, is "ail oak," and, with the vast powers and patronage which an unparalleled war has centered and left in his hands as President of the most powerful and warlike republic of modern times, he may well stand as a rock-fast, immovable breakwater against the inrolling tides of destructive radicalism.

That the hends of this Moses of our deliverance, so far, should be strengthened and upheld for a conflict in which the issues of constitutional liberty and the destinics of the Great Republic are to be decided for all time, should now be the prime objects of the conservatives everywhere, but particularly here in the President's away Restand Tampessee. It was chiefly with this summer, and that he adopted some measures of a most liberal character, such as the recognition of the Kingdom of Itaty, the electoral reform, and others. But all in vain; for, although a good many "Progresicas"—in Lact, nearly every one of them except the central committee sitting at Madrid—were satisfied with the generous advances, the party was prevailed upon not to appear at the elections that took place a few weeks ago. Not having, therefore, whiched to accept the legal course that was open to them, the "Progresistas" were naturally actuated to try to obtain office by violent means; and it is for these reasons that General Prim has litted up the standard of rebellion. mer, and that he adopted some measu

AMONG THE OIL REGIONS OF KEYTROFF correspondent of the Nashville Banner, of yesterday, thus relates what he learned and saw during a visit to the Kentucky Od-Dorado:

The West Union Oil Company of Kentucky, General Copeland, President, and J. T. Rice, of Alton, Illineis, Secretary and Treasmer, are also located upon Eagle Creck, about a mile above Obey River. They have their machinery upon the ground and are busily at work starting their well upon Hill's farm.

From this point I proceeded across the conntry toward Burksville, passing on my way the Cilcion County Company's well on Illwill Creck, which was being put down by horse power. The company have thus for reached only a depth of sixty leet. I then proceeded to the wells of the Burksville Kenlucky Oil and Mining Company, Benjamin P.

Virtia, who bored it to a depth of 240 feet, and struck a vein of oll which ran out freely. He plugged the well and went away for tubing and tanks, but after rebraing heme enlisted in the Confederate army and was killed at Cheat Monatain. The well rundished as he left it until the 10th of March last, when the Burkswille, Ky., Company opeual it and found it plugged at a depth of five and a half feet from the surface. The oil had forcedited it through part of the plug and was standing within six inches of the top of the ground. It has been sunk by the present company to a det. ho 50! feet. Pamping is going on busily and the well yields a heavy labricating oil of 22's specific gravity at thirty feet depth. The average yield is from twenty to twenty-five barrels per day.

A half mile further on I came to the celebrated English farm, on which, at the month of Crocus creek, is located the Crocus well, of the New York and Kentucky Company, Sam'l H. Gresvenor, Eq., of New York, President, Edward B. Thompson, Eq., of Noewleh, Conn., Secretary and Treasurer, and E. C. Brooke, Ess., Superintendent. This well, at the depth of 190 feet, struck oil outher the force of the control of the New York, and the control of the New York and Kentucky Company, Sam'l H. Gresvenor, Eq., of Noew York, President, Conn., Secretary and Treasurer, and E. C. Brooke, Ess., Superintendent. This well, at the depth of 190 feet, struck oil outher New of where the Creeksboro Petrokum Company, o. L. Wargoner, of Frankfort, President, and J. B. Teinyle, of the same place, Sceretary, have ther well.

Their well is located one mile from the Cambriand, on the south bank, and on Salf Lick Creek, upon the Gabbard tarm. The well is 142 feet deep, and oil was struck on the 25th of November lest. It is in successful operation, persident of Company have shipped appeared of COM Starrels, and have still quite a large stock in their tanks. They have commenced another well upon the Allen have commenced another well upon the Allen have commenced another well upon the Allen faim above, and three others are being rapidly put down by other parties in the immediate viciaity. It is confidently asserted by gentlemen from this State, who have lately held private and protacted conversations with the President, that at least three members of the present Cabinet will be relieved of their portfolios during the current month. The President, it is said, after having devoted that careful and serious consideration to the subiest which its magnitude and importance required, has adopted a course of piley by which, in his opinion, the future integrity and prosperity of the Union may be secured, and has determined that no marplots among his own political household shall, by factions and radical opposition, interfere with its successful issue. The views of the President, as expressed in the published accounts of his late reception of the Montana and negro delegations, evidently exhibit an inbridged gap between himself and the nature of the above statement.

In the remarks of the President to the Vir. inia delegates occurs this palsage: I do not intend to say any thing personal nt you know re well as I do that at the eginning, and indeed before the beginning adelphia and other places, in which they were added by New York detectives, they finally discovered some of the missing bonds on a man in this city, who was willing to sell them. Through his confession and information, on January 22d, the detectives proceeded to Camden, opposite Philadeiphic; thence, during the night, nine-teen miles down the shore of the Delaware river to a cottage near the village of Paulsboro, where lived the chief robber, anotorious counterfeiter named Langdon W. Moore, alias Cuarley Adams, who was taken to New York and committed on the charge of burgiary. Nothing was found on Moore.

The house was thoroughly scarched—curtains pulled down, carpets sipped, desks broken open, beds examined, and the wainscotting and floors of all the rooms examined—but the search was unsnecessful. On digging under the stable, however, they found a giass jar, hermetically scaled, a few test below the surface, countaining a hundred thousand dollars in bonds. They next day some four first below the silf of a watergate, on the bank of the liver, below high-water mark, where they found a tin box, containing seventy-nins thousand dollars in bonds. They have been identified by the bank efficus, and allogathe one hundred and ninety-six thousand four hundred and thirty-one dollars of stellen property was recovered and given over to the bank efficients. THE OLDEST MAN IN AMERICA.—In this city

The Older Man in America.—In this city there is, perhaps, the oldest inhabitant now living in America.—Mr. Jose Fenno, a native of Lower Canada. The following account of him is given by himself and by those who have known him for the last forty years. He was a man at the time Canada was inhabited by General Montgomery in 1775, but does not remember his age at that date; says he recollects that he was in the woods splitting rails when the news came of the advance of Montgomery upon Quebec At the close of the American revolution he left Canada, and settled in the them Louistana Territory, west of the Massaippi, from which time he was almost continuously for some fifty years in the employment of various fur companies as a trapper in the mountain regions of the News Orleans under Gen. Jackson, and states that then (1810) he was vary gray headed.

About thirty-five years ago he hired as a trapper to the late Major Dripps, a well-known mountain trader—the father in-law of Mr. William Mulkey, with whom the old man now resides. His services for Major Dripps continued until some seventeen years ago, since which time he has not attempted to must. The history of his long life in the mountains is replete with strange and startling incidents, of halr-breadth escapes from Indians and wild beasts, of starvation and suffering in the mountain anows, and other scenes peculiar to the life of the trapper. He is nearly the last of the old stock of the trappers, fent, Carson, Eridger, &c., are but boys to him, and he will scarcely permit to them the appellation of "mountain men." For the last fitten years, lines he became too old to hunt, he has been kindy cared for by the daughter of Major Dripps and her husband, who have furnished him accomfortable house, and have his meals regularly sent to him. The old man la in excellent health, and always cheerful and happy—ever was sick a day in his He, attends church (Catholic) with great regularity, and chara man his health and always cheerful and happy mean regiment sent to him. The old man is in excellent health, and always eleverful and happy—never was sick a day in his life, attends church (Catholic) with great regularity, and takes much interest in all that is going on. His second chitchood is happy and refreshingly innocent. Last summer he went with the family to see the cars running on the railroad, a sight he had nover before witnessed. After looking on for a while wonderingly, he remarked: "I will tell God I have seen a railroad." From all the facts which can be adduced from those who have long known him, and from his own recollection of events during his life, he cannot be less than one hundred and twenty years old. Our own acquaintance with him extends back afteen years, during which time he does not seem to have grown perceptibly older. We still see him every summer at work in his little flower and vegetable garden, and from his appearance no stranger would guese him to be within first years of alls actual age.—Kusasa City (Mo.) rty years of als actual are. - Kansas City (Mo.) ournal of Commerce, Feb. 4th.

Pans, Jan. 23, 1966.

The legislative session of 1866 was opened yestenday by the Emperor in person, in the Salle des Etats of the Lonvre. Their Majesties came in const-carriages through the triumphal arch to the Pavision Denon, a line of national guards sectifully them to the right and lett. The day being unusually mild and spring-like, the crowd of persons in the neighborh od of the Tuileries and along the Rue de Rivoli, which had assembled to witness the Imperial cortege, was immense. Spiendid equipages, conveying the embassadors, ministers, senators, and high chicials to the Imjerial sitting, continued for oil in quick succession until a few moments before I o'clock, at which time the Emperor and Empress left the Palace of the Tuilerles in a carriage drawn by two horses, followed
